Let me entertain you at Swan at the Globe

Swan at the Globe, at Bankside, has done it again, but this time on a bigger and grander style than ever before. Now hundreds of jazz lovers and Fitzrovia fans will be able to flock to the spectacular UnderGlobe, beneath Shakespeare's Globe theatre this May, to enjoy two unique nights of entertainment and fine British food, cabaret style, all for under twenty pounds!

The first fabulous night takes place on Saturday 16 May and will feature two 45 minute sets per artist; featuring one of the most brilliant young sax players Alex Garnett and the New Ambassadors and Simon Harris the quirky songwriter, whose fiery gypsy jazz virtuosity, is played out in an exceptional trio. DJ Jonny Vercoutre will be playing sets of filthy swing and bebop in-between and after to dance the night away to.

On Friday 29 May the inimitable and irrepressible Fitzrovia Radio Hour takes to the stage and will act out its 'live radio show' to the crowd, exploring the mystery of speed and time with four unforgettable, witty and quirky sketches. To complete this evening's entertainment will be jazz from Marmaduke Dando Hutchings – a beguiling young singer with a timeless English baritone, and DJs 'Tim the Turk and Makoto' delivering their finest selection of filthy swing – with guest slots from Mr Callum Coates and Silks.

For both evenings Swan at the Globe is giving guests the choice to simply enjoy the show for a fiver, or combine the entertainment with a fabulous three course set menu for just £19.50, served to you 'cabaret style' as you enjoy the entertainment. The meal, with vegetarian options available, will include British classics including Prawn Cocktail, Sharing Lamb Shank Pie and Eton Mess with Fresh Raspberries.

For guests who come for the show only, an imaginative choice of snacks will be available from circulating usherettes, all beautifully dressed in Swan at the Globe style. Doors open from 7.30pm, entertainment commences at 8pm.

Those wishing to dine MUST book and pay in advance and to avoid disappointment, jazz and Fitzrovia fans are advised to pre-book their £5 entertainment only tickets to guarantee entry.
